Not Taken Seriously-Sanford's Hen Not Discouraged-Yale Has a Star in Hale - Princeton's Big Handicap - Gossip.

The Columbia manager's statements regarding the treatment accorded by Harvard at Cambridge on last Saturday has surprised at Cambridge on last Saturday has surprised college men in view of the Crimson's habitual sportsmanship and fair play. Harvard men here find it a hard matter to believe that any intentional wrong was done and hope that the Columbia manager was misunderstood. At Columbia's football headquarters yesterday nobody would say anything further on the subject, but several of the leading spirits expressed regret that a complaint of any kind had found its way into print. Harvard never has been accused of unfairness before. In fact the Crimson has had many reasons for complaining against the treatment extended by rivals, but always remained silent, except in the case of the Hinkey-Wrightington episode at Springfield in 1894, which temporarily severed the relations between Haryard and Yale. The fault found by Columbia with the rulings of Referee Crolius and Umpire Dashiell also has caused unfavorable comment. Dashiell is chairman of the Intercol-legiate Rules Committee, and always has been considered the best football umpire in the country. He has officiated at all the big games for many years and his rulings always have been pronounced just. It is doubtful if Dashtell ever was at a loss for a proper decision, even in the event of the complicated plays. He knows the rules, for he helped to frame them and has been a stickler for their enforcement. That Dashiell would intentionally wink at rule-breaking by Harvard in the shape of out and out slugging, while he penalized Columbia for a similar offence, is a hard matter to believe. He may have made an error in ruling off the wrong man, but that is excusable. While Coach Sanford refused to say a word about the game and the unpleasant features of it, one of his friends said that he deplored the statements regarding Harvard that have been made public. According to gossip around Columbia's quarters Sanford is not at all discouraged. It is said that he made the remark that if Columbia's back field had been able to handle Harvard's punts with even an ordinary degree of skill the game would not have been walkover for the Crimson. Sanford is said to have made the additional statement that in point of physical make-up there was no difference between the elevens, but that an attack of stage fright as soon as the ball was kicked off by the Crimson made the Columbia novices useless. When asked what chance Columbia would have with the University of Pennsylvania next Saturday. Sanford merely said: "The men will work hard to wipe out defects and will do the best they know how!"

It has developed that Yale has one of the best It has developed that Yale has one of the best line buckers in the arena in Perry Hale. In fact, good judges say that he is in the class established by Frank Butterworth and "Brink" Thorne. Hale is one of the heaviest backs playing football and is a man of remarkable endurance. The Yale coaches have been working him constantly and he has shown such steady improvement that there is now no intention of taking him out of the back field and placing him at centre rush, where he made a name for himself a year aso. The Harvard men who saw Yale line up against Dartmouth placeing him at centre rush, where he hade a name for himself a year ago. The Harvard men who saw Yale line up against Dartmouth on last Saturday were surprised at the beef and weight of the Blue cleven. They said that they had not seen a more bulky rush line from New Haven in many years and they were particularly impressed with the vigorous play of the team. There was one noticeable defect, however. The punting of Sharpe was slow and

So far an unusual number of players have been disqualified for shugging. The officials, as a rule, have been wide awake, but there is room for improvement. It might not be a bad idea if another year power should be given to the referee, as well as the umpire, to disqualify sluggers on sight. There is no excuse for the use of fists in football and the men who include in this kind of rough play should not be permitted to wear uniforms. It is often the case that pugnacious players wait until the umpire's back has been turned before they land their numbers, but with the referee as that pugnacious players wait until re's back has been turned before they the umpire's back has been furned before they land their punches, but with the referee enabled to inflict a penalty many offences of this kind could not escape punishment. There is bound to be scrapping in football games because of the presence of hot-headed young men on the clevens, but they should be curbed, not only by the presiding officials, but also by the coaches and captains. Clean football is popular, but when the methods of prizefighters are employed it is time to call a halt. fighters are employed it is time to call a halt.

West Point and Annapolis have both shown strength this fall. The Naval Cadets in the battle with Princeton surprised their friends and aroused plenty of enthusiasm. Last year's defeat at the hands of the Military Academy must be wiped out, they say at Annapolis, and when the elevens meet in the final game of the seasonat Philadelphia the West Pointers may expert a hard fight. The friendly feeling between the Army and Navy shown at the game a year ago was sufficient to make this eventa fixture and it can be said that when the academies line up again there will be one of the most picturesque struggies of the season. The West Point eleven will meet Harvard's 'Varsity next Saturday and the young soldiers will be well tried out. If they can hold the Crimson's score down so that it will excel the record made by Columbia, the West Pointers will have increased confidence.

Those who are wondering what is the matter.

Those who are wondering what is the matter with the Princeton 'Varsity should not lose sight of the fact that the conchers have been confronted with a proposition that is unusual. Of the eleven that defeated Yale last November, chiefly because of Poe's fortunate goal from the field in the last minute of play, few remain. Hillebrand, the best tackle on the gridforn: Edwards and Craig, the giant guards; Booth, centre rush, Palmer and Poe, the fleet ends; Hutchinson, quarter back; Retter, the heavy line-bucking half back, and Wheeler, the clever full back and punter, are no longer available, and the coaches have had plenty of work to fill the places left vacant. It is not often that a big 'Varsity eleven loses nine regulars at a time, but in the face of this handicap the Tigers are persevering with the result that at a time, but in the face of this handicap the Tigers are persevering with the result that their eleven is gradually rounding into form.

If Princeton can defeat the crack Lafayette College team on next Saturday there will be a feeling of intense relief at Old Nassau. The Lafayette eleven is thought to be fully as strong as that of last year which deleated old Penn by 6 to 0. It will be recalled that the Tigers, with all of their stars in their line-up, defeat d Laias ette by 12 to 0 in a game that was replete with hard playing. The Easton men this season have demonstrated about the same strength, but as Princeton is not yet in form the Tigers will be forced to play much better football than against Annapolis in order to win. Lafayette's team is heavy and plays a dashing game. The men are for the most part yeterans and have been well coached.

Because of charges of professionalism, Harvard has lost the services of a promising quarter back in Sherlock. He made bis mark with the English High School team of Boston and played against Daly, the Harvard captain, while the latter was on the Boston Latin school eleven. Last summer Sherlock was on a baseball team, the members of which received money for their services. According to the strict meaning of the amateur rule as it is enforced at Cambridge, he has been debarred from playing football. Capt Daly, by the way, has a broken rose, which he received in the game with Bowdoin. A rubber mask, however, has made it possible for him to continue playing.

Not the least interesting part of the pro-

The University of Pennsylvania eleven has more good punters than any of the other big teams. Caut Hare did the punting last year and did it well. But now he has more than met his match in Quarter Back Graves and Haif Back John Gardiner. Graves is not only a phenomenal kicker for his size and weight, but he appears to be a coming quarter back. The other day Gardiner made a punt of seventy yards on Franklin Field, and after the ball struck the turf it rolled twenty vards further. For a time after the graduation of George Brooke, the great fullback, the Quakers were weak in the kicking department, but now they are better fixed than ever. This is one point that should be remembered at Harvard.

PRINCETON, Oct. 15.—The Tigers appeared on Osborne Field this afternoon for the first time since their return from the disappointing trip South and the exhibition of the collegiate game that their practice furnished was about the poorest that has been seen here this year. For fifteen minutes the big 'Varsity men struggled against the second raters, who fought them to a standstill and prevented them from getting nearer than the 25-yard line to their goal. In the last rush Hodgman had his knee wrenched.

ITHACA, Oct. 15.—Cornell's Varsity took no practice to-day, but simply watched the work of the two scrub teams from the side lines. The faculty gave out a statement of the reasons why John Pierson is not allowed to play. It is to the effect that Pierson was allowed to register on probation, and if he succeeds in keeping up his work in good shape he will be taken off probation and consequently will be allowed to play.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—The practice of the Yale football team this afternoon was very unsatisfactory. It was the usual Monday style of football. Half a dozen of the star players laid off in order to recuperate from the strain of Saturday's game with Dartmouth. Coy and Sheldon both received slight injuries this afternoon. Coy had his hand kicked and Sheldon had his nose and eye cut.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 15.—The Harvard 'Varsity eleven had a slump to-day after the Columbia game. For the third time this season, the second eleven scored on the 'Varsity. The other feature of the practice was the reappearance of Roberts on the 'Varsity eleven, at centre, in place of Sargent. The cosches seem to have determined to use the 275-pounder, and so all the seasons of the practice was the content of the c

CLINTON, Oct. 15.—Hamilton College defeated Hobart at football here to-day by the score of 59 to 0. The Hobart team was strong in line work, but weak in interference and end runs. Hamilton's, while unable to buck the centre, made end plays easily in three instances, taking the ball f. om Hobart's 25-yard line for a touchdown.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Secret practice was taken this afternoon at Franklin Field. The State College team is so crippled by injuries to its players that it has decided to postpone Wednesday's game with Pennsylvania. This will mean that the game will not be played this season, as Pennsylvania has no open dates.

All the Prominent Women Players of the Country to Meet at Baltusrol.

One of the most popular tournaments of the year for women is that of the Baltusrol Golf Club, which opens this morning with an eighteen -hole handicap, the sixteen best gross scores qualifying for the Batusrol cup and the second best sixteen gross scores for the Consolation cup. Boston, Oct. 15.—Harry Vardon played two practice matches at the Oakley Country Club in Watertown to-day. In the forenoen Vardon, with George Merritt, the professional of the Cohassett Golf Club, as a partner, played a practice best ball foursome at nine holes against Alexander and David Findiay. The Findiay brothers were the winners by 1 up. This afternoon Vardon and A. L. Ripley of Oakley played an eighteen-hole foursome with J. C. Thorp of Oakley and Donald Ross, the club professional. Vardon and his partner won by 6 up.

New Brinswick, N. J., Oct. 16.—A special handicap match to-day on the links of the New Brunswick Golf Club for loving cups was won by Irving flowell with a net score of 83. flis handicap was 10 and his gross score 102. The women's handicap resulted in a tie between Miss Misnon Shannon and Mrs. John P. Street. Miss Shannon's score was 126, 13—113. Mrs. Street's score was 141, 28—113. The tie was not played off.

The Westchester Golf Club announces that its annual open tournament will be held on Nov. 1, 2 and 3. After the eighteen-hole scors round for a gold medal the first sixteen will keep on for the Governor's and the second sixteen for the Consolation Cup. There will be a handleap mixed foursome on the second day and a men's handleap on the last day. The cups and medals are of unusually handsome design. Entries close on Oct. 31 with the secretary, G. Fox Tiffany.

Chasrin reigned at Columbia yesterday when the scrub teum defeated the reorganized 'Varsity by a score of 5 to 0. The fractlee was unusually foor and disastrous results are feared in Saturday's game with Pennsylvania. Weekes was removed from the 'Varsity on account of his poor work at Cambridge and he played with the scrub. Berrian and Holman soon joined him while Sanford put in a new set of 'Varsity backs composed of hillhouse, Huffaker, Goodman, A-bley and Townsend. Slocy vitch, Smythe and Van Hoevenberk are still suffering from the effects of the flatyard game and Potts and Boyesen played at the ends with Capt. Morley at tackle. Sykes ran the fear of the following:

FAVORITES IN FIVE FIRST CHOICES LAND THE

MONEY AT MORRIS PARK. Dry Dollar Sullivan's Constituents Win Heavily on Col. Padden-Old Dolando Captures a Stake in the Mud-Big Surprise in Burdle Race Averted by a Stumble-Entries To-day.

The final week's racing for this season under the auspices of the Westchester Association was ushered in with a flourish at Morris Park yesterday. The going was dead all round and decidedly sloppy in spots but not nearly so bad as was anticipated after the swamping downpour of Saturday night. Overhead the conditions were perfect for an outing and the attendance was fully up to the average Monday standard. Several trainers were over hasty in withdrawing their horses, but when the man with the blue pencil got through enough material was left for an enjoyable day's racing. The compact fields suited the regulars and after making one mistake, they went right down the line cashing in on every favorite outside the winner of the hurdle race.

The event over the sticks came first in order and there was a tendency to play Klondyke, but a comparison of the weights scared his admirers, and Draughtsman, with an advantage of thirty-seven pounds, went to the post a strong first choice. Klondyke ruled next in a strong first choice. Klondyke ruled next in demand while a lot of quiet money was invested on the outsider, Alvarado 11. The latter ran away from his field and, coming to the second last obstacle, had a lead of six lengths. He hit the hurdle heavily and Klondyke rushed to the front, winning by three lengths. Brazil also tried to come through with Draughtsman, but Henry got Alvarado going again and took the place by half a length.

also tried to come through with Draughtsman, but Henry got Alvarado going again and took the place by half a length.

Vulcain made a bold bid to carry his top weight through in the second Monday Handicap and got his head in front on the home turn. Lief Prince hing on to him, but in the run down to the judges Carbuncle outfooted the lot and won easily by two lengths. Dr Barlow, after trailing most of the way, managed to beat Lief Prince out of show money.

Ten useful two-year olds weighed out for the new Commando Stakes, an event that the bookmakers are not likely to forget in some time. They generously offered 5 to 2 against Col. Padden, the shifty son of Charaxus that had been racing successfully in the colors of Frank Brown, although supposed to be the property of the city sergeant-int-arms. Yesterday the cold appeared in the name and colors of T. D. Sullivan and before the East Side plungers got through the odds had been cut to 8 to 5. The Colonel won all the way, although Burns was forced to a mild drive to beat Lueranan three parts of a length. Old Dolando found an easy spot in the Throags Neck Stakes, a race for three-year-olds and upward over the Withers mile. Perry Belmont's smart flly Oread, and R. T. Wilson's mud lark, Sparrow Wing, showed him the way to the last pole, but the original "beef and "hero then came on and won out in a drive by three parts of a length. Only two horses turned out for the Ethelbert and star Bright, although very rank, found little difficulty in disposing of Douro. Summary:

CHICAGO Oct. 15.—A large Monday crowd witnessed a steeplechase at Harlem to-day that was a chapter of accidents from first to last. At the second break, a false one, Negligence ran away with Allmark across the field and into the main track, where he fell across the field and into the main track, where he fell over the fenos, breaking Allmark's leg; the horse was caught and returned to the paddock and, after a twenty minutes' wait. Kerins took the mount. At the first jump Monita cut her foot badly and refused to go further. At the third obstacle high Admiral fell and two horses jumped over the rider. Lawless, who miraculously escaped injury. At the water jump Nicholas also cut his foot badly and refused to go further. Frond won the race easily from Hollins, with Coronaus, who pulled up very lame, third. There were no special features to the racing, the card being but an ordinary one. The outsider, Miss Dooley, who was 30 to 1 despite the fact that she won her last out, was bid up to $600 and purchased by D. P. Rodgers. Summary:

Hildreth appealed to the stewards of the Jockey Club on Saturday for a lenient ruling on his case. He wants to race on the Eastern circuit, and, beyond the break for which he was disciplined on the first day of the present meeting, he seems to have a clean record. His plea is under consideration, but in the meantime he is preparing a formidable String for the California campaign.

Miss Gast Completes 2,000 Miles and Brais the Record for Men.

Miss Margaret Gast of this city completed last night her undertaking of riding 2,000 miles on the road, each successive 100 miles within twelve hours or less of the previous 100, as required by the rules of the Century Road Club. Her total time for the distance was 727 hours 527 hours 528 minutes. This is the best performance in the way of road riding ever accomplished by a woman and, more than that her time for the distance was complished by a woman and, more than that her time for the distance with the text record made by a man for the same distance. When she finished Miss Gast idinot look as though she had gone more than nine of sleep. She needed no help to dismount, although half a dozen pairs of hands were cutstretched to her. About a hundred enthusiasts were present when she finished members of the Century Road Club, of which Miss Gast is a member, and the spectators united in a cheer. encouraged by some of those associated with her. One man plainly said to a reporter of THE SIN, while another newspaper man was present:

"I don't care how much is said about the horrors of this. You can say that she is all bandaged up and that she receives all kinds of dope. She is going ahead with the ride and will beat the record. We don't care out here how terrible the newspapers make it appear. The more 'horrors' there are in the reports the better we like it.

"Miss Gast rode up to the hotel shortly after this was said. There was nothing in her appearance to indicate that she was under the influence of any drug. She was a little less vivacious than is her wont, but entirely rational in speech and manner.

Miss Gast is a woman of short stature, but sturdlly built, and a vivacious blonde. She lierned to ride last August and early this summer rode ten continuous centuries. She undertook the ride of 2,000 miles because her record for 1,000 miles was broken by Mrs. Jane Lindsay riding fifteen centuries. The fact that the women endure these feats as well as they do is attributed by century riders to the fact that so much has been learned of the art of training them since the rivalry began last year. One of the first competitors for honors of the kind was Miss Jane Yatman, who was a physical wreck after riding seven centuries. Since then the goal has been pushed steadily forward, but each rider seems to stand it better than ever. The opportunity for fraud is small if it exists at all. The course is between Springfield, Valley Stream, Freeport, Hempstead and Valley Stream, which have to be used on a regular blank form in order to have the performance recognized by the Century Road Club. Probably the best check, however, is that of the riders who act as pacemakers. They are nearly all "century fiends" and there is a great amount of rivalry and jealousy between them, and if anything irregular was done at night, when the spectators thin out, some one would be almost certain to make it known. York A. C. Douglas has worn the "winged foot" colors, for nearly a decade, in swimming, cycling and billiard competitions, and inquiries into the matter showed that the Athletic Committee refused to enter the noted athlete or allow him to compete in the name of the club. the reasons prompting such action.

The trouble between Douglas and the club management dates back to the game of water polo played between the New York A. C. and the Knickerbocker A. C. at the Sportsmen's show last March. What happened at the time was not creditable to the "winged foot" team, but until now the matter has remained a secret. The clubs for years have been rivals at water polo and in the championship game the previous year thousands of dollars were wagered on the result. It was well known that the New York men were not in trim for a hard contest last March, but the management was anxious to provide the attraction of another meeting between the two crack teams and an agreement was entered into between the players or some of them, for what was practically a fake contest. The Knickerbocker men, who were in fine condition, agreed to make the game appear interesting by not doing their best, and thus keep the score down so that the New Yorks would not be badly beaten, while the "winged foot" pla ers went even further and undertook not to score a goal against their opponents.

Everything went smoothly in the first half, The Knickerbocker A. C. players carried out their part of the programme and scored only one goal. No further goal was made until only three minutes play remained of the second half. Then Fred Wenck of the New York players tried their best to be absolved from the implication of executing the Knickerbocker defence and scored The New York players tried their best to be absolved from the implication of executing the "double cross." They told the referee that the goal had not been fairly made and when that official refused to entertain that idea, had the nerve to inform him of the fact that they had agreed beforehand not to score. Some of the members of the old New York A. C. champion team were present at the discussion which followed the lineident, and highly incensed at the idea of the "winged foot" contingent "laving down" to any opponent, reported the members selected by the captain to the playing within themselves, in order to render the game attractive to the spectators, and prevent showing up the poor condition of our team, but it is outrageous that the men who wear the winged foot' should engage in a com-petition for honor in which they bound them-selves down beforehand not to attempt to score. Such methods are contrary to the first principle of amateur sport and is sure to be disastrous unless checked at once. It am sure that the club as a body and all amateur sports-men will upheld the course pursued by the Athlette Committee." Athletic Committee."

Yesterday Tom Sharkey's manager, Barney Reich, said that he would post $2,500 to-day as a forfeit to show that his protégé is sincere in his efforts to get on a match with any of the big fellows. Sharkey prefers either Jim Jeffries, Gus Ruhin or Jim Corbett. Reich, who has been negotiating with the San Francisco clubs for the past three weeks in regard to a match for Sharkey, received the appended telegram from J. J. Accept your offer. Will post $2.500 forfelt and Sharkey will fight the first man who covers the money.

"I have been doing my best to get some of these big chaps to fight Sharkey," said Reich yesterday. "Tom prefers a meeting with Jeffries, as the latter is the champion, Despite the fact that the result of Tom's last essay with Jim did not terminate in his favor, Sharkey is still of the opinion that he can defeat the Champion, If Jeffries objects I will match Sharkey against either Gus Ruhlin or Jim Corbett. The latter can have a side wager of $10,000 on the outside if he cares to."

Jeffries, who is in town, says that he is willing to meet Sharkey, but wants to hear from Fitzsimmons first. "I have given to Fitz until Dec. I to decide," said Jeffries. "If by that time he does not respond I will cheerfully agree to tackle the former sallor. Of course Gus Ruhlin will get the first chance." Intercollegiate Records Indersed.

At a joint meeting of the Executive and Advisory committees of the Intercollegiate Association was held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on Sunday to pa s on records and transact other business. The following performances at the games last May were officially recognized as records and the men who made them will receive the Association record medal:

A. Plaw. University of California, throwing 16pound hammer, 134 feet 314 inches.
F. Beck, Yale University, putting 18-pound shot, 44 feet 3 inches.
Alexander Grant, University of Pennsylvania, twomile run, 9 minutes 55 3-5 seconds. The games held last May were a great success financially and the Treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $2.633.

The proposed rules for the better government of intercollegiate contests proposed by a Faculty Committee of the different colleges and published last week, were discussed at some length. The rules were finally referred to the Advisory Committee with some proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws, with instructions to report at a special meeting of the Executive and Advisory committees to take place the night before the annual meeting of the Association next February.
